

Graser, Jennifer

From: Graser, Jennifer
Sent: Thursday, June 14, 2001 12:08 PM
To: Graser, Jennifer
Subject: critical limitations must be in claim

While the specification can be used to provide definitive support, the claims are not read in a vacuum. Rather, the claim must be definite and complete in and of itself. Limitations from the specification will not be read into the claims. The claims as they stand are incomplete and fail to provide adequate structural properties to allow for one to identify what is being claimed.